

OUR CAPABILITIES

IN-HOUSE PACKING

POUCH PACKAGING MACHINE

In-house packing is a key capability at PolarSeal. Our pouch packaging machine seals medical and diagnostic devices into pouches. It provides high seal integrity and we are able to offer a wide range of packaging material and pack designs to suit all requirements, including moisture and light-resistant products.

The pouches can be printed and include the lot, expiry, and UDI labelling in accordance with medical packaging quality regulations. Our packing processes are equipped with metal particle detection and the best quality detection equipment to ensure your medical products are packaged to the very highest of standards

- Wound dressing packing operations carried out in Class 10,000 Cleanroom facility
